The Sentinel, has much the largest circulation of any paper published in this county—and as an advertising sheet offers superior inducements to merchants and business men generally. Those desirous of making use of this medium for extending their business can do so by either sending their notices direct, or through the following agents:
John Crouse, Esq., Johnstown.
E. W. Carr, Esq., Buildings, Third st. Philadelphia.
Wm. A. Kinsler, Pittsburg.
George Pratt, 151, Nassau st., New York.

The Democracy of Westmoreland county have nominated Andrew Graham, Sr., of Fairfield township, for Prothonotary of that county. This nomination is to supply the vacancy occasioned by the death of the former incumbent.

Dr. R. A. MILLER, Surgeon Dentist, from Huntington, has again paid our borough a visit, and is now at Mr. Carmon's Hotel, where he is prepared to perform all operations belonging to his profession in the best possible manner. As the Doctor, when here on a former occasion, gave very general satisfaction to all those who employed his services, we take pleasure in recommending him to such of our friends as may wish to have operations performed in his line of business.

We learn from the Pittsburg Morning Post that on motion of Col. Wilson McCandless, O. H. Brown, Esq., of this place was admitted to the Bar of the Supreme Court on the 7th inst.

Poor Hungary!

Hungary has fallen! All the bright hopes of Hungarian independence of every friend of freedom throughout the world have been blasted, and the noble Magyars are again compelled to bear the yoke of tyranny. The combined powers of Russia and Austria have trampled Hungarian independence in the dust, but who will say that it will not rise again like a Phoenix from its ashes. It may be repressed but not destroyed. For the particulars of this result, so disastrous, the reader is referred to the foreign news in another part of to-day's paper.

Anniversary Ball.

The members of the "Cambria Guards" and a number of the citizens of this place will celebrate the anniversary of the battle of Cephalonia, at the House of Samuel J. Renshaw this evening, where a Ball and supper will be given. As such things always "pass off" in the most agreeable manner, under the supervision of Mr. Renshaw, we invite all who are fond of "tripping on the light fantastic toe" to be in attendance.

Democratic Meeting.

A number of the citizens of Washington and the adjoining townships assembled at Plane No. 4, A. P. R. R. on Saturday evening, the 8th inst., for the purpose of consulting about the propriety of holding a large democratic meeting at such time and place in that township as might be deemed advisable.

The meeting was organized by calling Col. John M'Gough to the Chair, and appointing Wm. Henry and D. M'Namany Esqs. Vice Presidents, and Lieut. W. W. Ivory Secretary. J. B. Onslow, Esq., was called upon to state the object of the meeting, which which he complied in a few pertinent remarks. Dr. Wm. A. Smith also made a few remarks relative to the importance of redeeming our good old Commonwealth from the thraldom of whiggery, and the necessity of a speedy organization of our forces to accomplish that glorious object. After some discussion it was resolved to call a meeting at that place on Saturday the 22d inst., and that the citizens of the adjoining townships be requested to unite with the democracy of Washington so that their co-operation may ensure the success of the entire democratic ticket.

John A. Gamble and Henry M. Fuller.

The Republican published at Jersey Shore, Lycoming county, the residence of John A. Gamble, the democratic candidate for Canal Commissioner, bears the following testimony in reference to his good character. As this evidence of his worth and ability comes from a place where he is best known, it is entitled to more weight than all the false and gratuitous assertions of whig editors and politicians who know nothing about the man.

"To those who may not have any personal acquaintance with Mr. Gamble, we would say, from a personal knowledge of his character and from an intimate acquaintance with the man, we cheerfully bear testimony to him as a gentleman distinguished among all his fellow citizens and neighbors for his great moral worth, integrity, christian spirit, and his correct deportment in all the walks of life. And moreover, we can add, he is a man of mature judgment, enlarged capacities, and ample qualifications for the station to which his fellow citizens are about to promote him.

"As a politician the friends of Mr. Gamble appeal for the rectitude of his course to all his acts, in the various public stations he has occupied, whether as a Legislator for a number of years, as the member of the Reform Convention, as Superintendent of the Public Improvements, or in any other capacity in which he may have acted—in all which he discharged his duty faithfully, honestly and ably. Mr. Gamble has always been a firm unyielding member of the Democratic Republican party, and for a long series of years, has stood by her principles, her cause and her candidates. That Mr. Gamble belongs to this faction or that, is untrue. He recognizes no faction. He expects to receive the support of the whole democratic party. Nominated by delegates representing almost every interest and section of the State, if elected he can know no stripes or distinctions, in the body of the great democratic family. A pure, consistent and firm democrat himself, he will always be found in the support of democratic measures, democratic usages, and democratic men. Mr. Gamble it is known, was our first choice for the office of Canal Commissioner. There were other good and capable gentlemen named, to either of whom had they been nominated, we would have yielded a ready and cordial support. The Convention having decided consistently with our first choice we are now happy to give the nominee any honorable aid to secure his election to an office we believe he will fill with ability and fidelity."

From this it will be seen that our candidate is worthy of the confidence of the democracy of the entire State, and that his qualifications peculiarly fit him for the office for which he has been selected. His experience in public business and as a contractor on our public works has made him inferior to no man in the State, in his knowledge of the duties required by the people of a man who occupies a place in the Board of Canal Commissioners. Between him and his opponent, Mr. Fuller, there is no comparison in point of qualifications for the office. The Farmer published at Wilkesbarre the residence of Mr. Fuller, says he is a mere "fledgling of a lawyer," destitute of capacity or a knowledge of the duties that would be required of him as member of that responsible board. But he is more generally known as a speculator, in which capacity he has acted for several years. This is certainly, it must be admitted, a poor recommendation in the eyes of the people. They know that too many opportunities would be afforded him as a Canal Commissioner for indulging in his favorite occupation, and that there is little probability of the public interests being benefited thereby. They want a practical man—one that will have an "eye single" to their own interests, and such a man is Mr. Gamble. And the result of the contest on the Second Tuesday of October next will show that the people are able to discriminate as to who will make the best public servant, by the election of the democratic candidate by an overwhelming majority.

A second class passenger may insure to £500 for two pence, and a third class, £200 for one penny.

DIED.

On Monday last, the 8th inst., David Todd, Esq., aged 50 years.

The deceased was one of our most worthy citizens and universally known to the people of the county. He died after a severe illness of about four weeks, leaving behind him a large family, a number of relatives to mourn his loss. Kind in his disposition, upright in his dealings and eminent for his piety, and devotion to the church of which he was a member, his death will be deeply felt by the community in which he lived. He had filled the office of County Commissioner, &c., and at the time of his death was an acting Justice of the Peace, and Treasurer of the County, the duties of these several offices having been always discharged by him in such a manner as to secure the approbation and esteem of his fellow-citizens.—He was buried at Loretto, and his funeral was attended by a very large concourse of people.
